

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON DC

GW News Center
Office of University Relations
www.GWNewsCenter.org

GW In the News March 16 – 31, 2008

The Associated Press noted GW for conducting research into the law that gives people the power to request information from federal government files and the time frame for which the information is given or turned down. (3/21)

The Washington Post and the Washington Times noted GW for being one of the first teams to play on the National's new stadium. (3/23)

The Washington Post, Alexcityoutlook.com, the Washington Times (3/23), azstarnet.com, espn.com (3/22), Mercurynews.com (3/25), and kcbs.com (3/25), reported on the GW women's basketball team's successes in the NCAA tournament.

Individual.com (3/23) and inrich.com (3/25) noted GW for the introduction of a new activity called Parkour.

Hillary Clinton's speech foreign policy speech at GW was noted by several publications, including Newsweek.com (3/24), pipelinenews.org (3/24).

Telecom-expense-management-solutions.tmcnet.com (3/24) pr-inside.com (3/24), earthtimes.org (3/24) noted GW for hosting the National Cooperative Business Association (NCBA) Cooperative Conference on May 1 as a part of Cooperative Week in Washington.

GW's announcement of Julian Bond as its commencement speaker was reported by Digitalnewsdirect.com (3/25), euroinvestor.co.uk (3/24).

Eurekaalert.com (3/25), medicalnewstoday.com (3/26) noted The GW Medical Center for "Workplace Screening & Brief Intervention: What Employers Can and Should Do about Excessive Alcohol Use" and its role in trying to develop a better understanding of alcohol in the workplace.

Kotatv.com (3/25) noted GW for hosting a forum that will present a range of recommendations on the future of public diplomacy to the new administration.

Gazette.gmu.edu (3/26) noted GW for participating in George Mason's fourth annual Mason Entrepreneurship Research Conference which aims to build a community of researchers committed to furthering entrepreneurial studies and developing scholarly networks for research.

Yubanet.com (3/26) recognized GW for conducting experiments to determine whether chimpanzees learn the reputation of strangers indirectly through observation or by first hand experience.

The Washington Post (3/29) discussed GW's roots in Columbia Heights.

The Washington Post (3/29) noted GW for brainstorming with the D.C. Council on a way to implement health-care coverage for all D.C. residents through a subsidy program.

John F. Banzhaf, professor of public-interest law, was quoted on washingtonpost.com (3/29) regarding over the counter DNA tests and their credibility.

Nathan Brown, expert on Arab politics, was quoted in The Washington Post, Associated Press (3/22), Ohio.com, CantonRep.com, metroradio.com, msnbc.msn.com, pr-inside.com, signonsandiego.com (3/23) regarding a Mideast peace deal involving Israel and the United States.

David Brunori, professor of public policy, was quoted on thedailyrecord.com (3/24), thnt.com (3/24), c-n.com (3/24), app.com (3/23) regarding the New Jersey business tax policy.

Paul Carillo, assistant professor, was quoted by The Washington Examiner (3/26) regarding the drop in home prices in this region

Michael Cornfield, associate research professor at the Graduate School of Political Management's Institute for Politics, was quoted in the Washington Times (3/22) regarding Senator Clinton's rise in online campaign donations.

Karl Inderfurth, director of international affairs program, was quoted by The Washington Post (3/31) regarding the unfinished business left behind by the current administration.

Darryl Jenkins, director of Aviation Institute, was quoted on the dispatch.com (3/25) regarding Skybus' change in operations within its first year of business.

Celeste Monforton, research associate, was quoted on wvgwazette.com (3/26) regarding death rates near West Virginia coalfields.

Marie Price, associate professor of geography and international affairs, was quoted on fairfaxtimes.com (3/26) regarding her role in the book Immigrants, Suburbs, and the Politics of Reception in Metropolitan Washington.

Brian Richmond, associate professor of anthropology, was quoted on townhall.com (3/20) politicalgateway.com (3/21), dailytimes.com.pk (3/24) regarding the recent findings that human relatives had the ability to walk upright at least 6 million years ago.

Joshua Schwartz, law professor and co-director of the Government Procurement Law Program, was quoted on military.com (3/22) regarding the Boeing Company's push to overturn a lucrative Air Force contract.

David Shambaugh, director of the China policy program, was quoted in The Washington Post (3/21, 3/28) regarding the intensifying Chinese crackdown on Tibet and its ramifications.

Daniel Solove, associate professor of law, was quoted on NewHavenregister.com (3/22) courant.com (3/25) regarding the internet relating to privacy and defamation concerns for "generation Google" (current high school and college students) in particular.

Ronald Spector, professor of history and international affairs, was quoted on philly.com (3/31) and asminternational.org (3/31) regarding the rust and corrosion taking over the Olympia (Admiral Dewey's Flagship).

Gregory Squires, sociology professor, was quoted on blog.al.com (3/23) regarding the high priced homeowner's insurance in Alabama.

Alexandra Stewart, director of epidemiology of U.S. Immunization Law project, was quoted on lawprofessors.typepad.com (3/24) regarding misinformation influencing some parents to not immunize their children.

Christy Teal, breast surgeon, was quoted on nbc4.com (3/24) regarding the study of a new treatment for breast cancer which is expected to be more effective than current treatments.

Jonathan Turley, law professor, was quoted on globalresearch.ca (3/24) and latimes.com (3/26) regarding current lawlessness and injustice in today's judicial system.

John Vlach, professor of American studies and anthropology was noted on TheState.com (3/23) for his book titled The Planter's Prospect: Privilege and Slavery in Plantation Paintings. He also was quoted by thenewsstar.com (3/26) regarding his keynote speech to be given April 4 at the Louisiana Folklore Society at the University of New Orleans' shotgun house.

Ronald Weitzer, a sociology professor, was quoted in The Washington Post (3/22), and clevand.com (3/22) dispatcher.com (3/24), newarkadvocate.com (3/24), marionstar.com (3/25) regarding high-priced prostitutes and his book Sex for Sale: Prostitution, Pornography and the Sex Industry.