THE NEW MEXICAN GOVERNMENT AND ITS PROSPECTS

PRESENTED BY THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY CENTER FOR LATIN AMERICAN ISSUES
AND THE
US ARMY WAR COLLEGE STRATEGIC STUDIES INSTITUTE

Speaker Biographies

Dr. George Grayson
Dr. Grayson has been a member of the Government Department faculty at the College of William and Mary for 38 years. Professor Grayson is the Class of 1938 Professor of Government and focuses on Latin American Politics, with a particular interest in Mexico. He has written 20 books and monographs on international affairs, made 125 research trips to Latin America, and lectures regularly at the U.S. Department of State. He writes a column for "Milenio Semanal," a weekly magazine in Mexico. He is a senior associate at the Center for Strategic & International Studies in Washington, D.C. and an associate scholar of the Foreign Policy Research Institute in Philadelphia.

Steve Johnson
Mr. Johnson is director of the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) Americas Program. From 2007 to 2009, he served as deputy assistant secretary of defense for Western Hemisphere affairs. From 1999 to 2006, he served as a senior foreign policy analyst at the Washington-based Heritage Foundation, testifying before Congress and authoring studies on Latin American politics, trade, and security, as well as public diplomacy and immigration. He also served in the Bureaus of Inter-American and Public Affairs at the Department of State. A retired U.S. Air Force officer, he was a pilot and a military attaché. As a member of the Air Force Reserve, he served in the Office of Public Affairs of the Secretary of the Air Force and at U.S. Southern Command.
Dr. Jeffrey Weldon

Dr. Weldon is the chair of the political science department at the Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM), and the director of the undergraduate program in political science. He has been a professor at ITAM since 1994. At ITAM, he teaches courses on game theory and legislative politics. He is a founding member of the Mexican Parliamentary Studies Association (AMEP), and currently serves as the president of the association. His current research deals with executive-legislative relations, as well as party discipline and coalitions in both chambers of the Mexican Congress.

James Ferrer, Jr.

Dr. Ferrer is the founder and director of the Center for Latin American Issues (CLAI) at the George Washington University. He received a Ph.D. in Latin American history from the University of California, Berkeley, and an M.P.A. in economics from Harvard University. From 1986 until 1990, Dr. Ferrer was the Deputy U.S. Ambassador and Acting Ambassador in Brazil. From 1979 to 1983, he was the director of the Office of Aviation and Communication Affairs for the Department of State. Dr. Ferrer worked as a Director of Economic Affairs at the U.S. Embassy in Lisbon from 1975 to 1979.

In addition to these positions, Dr. Ferrer also directed the economic/commercial section at the U.S. consulate in Rio de Janeiro, served in the economic sections of the U.S. embassies in Buenos Aires and Santiago, directed the "Brazil Desk" at the State Department, worked in the Intelligence and Research Bureau of the State Department, and served in the administrative offices of the Latin American Bureau.

Max G. Manwaring

Max Manwaring is a Professor of Military Strategy in the Strategic Studies Institute (SSI) of the U.S. Army War College (USAWC). He has held the General Douglas MacArthur Chair of Research at the USAWC, and is a retired U.S. Army colonel. He has served in various civilian and military positions, including the U.S. Southern Command, the Defense Intelligence Agency, Dickinson College, and Memphis University.

Dr. Manwaring is the author and co-author of several articles, chapters, and books dealing with Latin American security affairs, political-military affairs, and insurgency and counter-insurgency. His most recent book is Insurgency, Terrorism, and Crime: Shadows from the Past and Portent for the Future, University of Oklahoma Press, 2008. His most recent article is “Sovereignty under Siege: Gangs and Other Criminal Organizations in Central America and Mexico,” published in Air & Space Power Journal (in Spanish), Segundo Trimestre 2008. His most recent SSI monograph is A Contemporary Challenge to State Sovereignty: Gangs and Other Illicit Transnational Criminal Organizations in Central America, El Salvador, Mexico, Jamaica, and Brazil. Dr. Manwaring is a graduate of the U.S. Army War College, and holds an M.A. and a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Illinois.