Northeast Asia: Russia’s Gateway for “Greatness”?
Part of IERES’ Visiting Scholars Roundtable Series
Co-sponsored by the Sigur Center for Asian Studies

with

Hong Sub Lee
Associate Professor, Korea National Defense University

This presentation will examine Russia’s strategic aims in seeking greater influence in Northeast Asia. It will describe the tools that Russia can use to gain leverage in the area. Additionally, the speaker will examine the evolution of Russia-Korean relations in the wider context of the region.

Hong Sub Lee is associate professor in the Department of International Relations at the Korea National Defense University in Seoul. During his sabbatical year at IERES, he is researching prospects for democracy in Russia.

Thursday, February 14, 2013
4:00 – 5:00 pm
Voesar Conference Room
1957 E Street NW, Suite 412
Please RSVP at http://go.gwu.edu/lee.

This event is on the record