Trends in Russian Public Opinion Under Putin: New Findings

With

Theodore P. Gerber, Professor of Sociology, University of Wisconsin
Henry E. Hale, Professor of Political Science and International Affairs, GWU
William Mishler, Professor of Government and Public Policy, University of Arizona
William Reisinger, Professor of Political Science, University of Iowa

Discussant

Donna Bahry, Professor of Political Science, Pennsylvania State University

Chair

Peter Rollberg, Director, Institute for European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies, GWU

With Vladimir Putin’s public approval ratings sky-high after Russia’s annexation of Crimea, major questions remain. How deep and sincere is this support? On what does it depend, and might people’s attitudes change soon if economic problems continue? To what extent do Russians “buy” what they hear on television about Russia’s activities in the world and its role in international conflicts? The speakers, all leading specialists on public opinion in Russia, will present and discuss the most important findings from four new research papers on public opinion in Russia that address these sorts of questions and others.

Lunch will be provided.

Monday, February 22, 2016
12:00 pm – 2:00 pm
1957 E St. NW, Lindner Commons, Room 602
Please RSVP at http://go.gwu.edu/russianpublicopinion

This event is on the record.

PONARS Eurasia is an international network of scholars advancing new approaches to research on security, politics, economics, and society in Russia and Eurasia. The program is based at the Institute for European, Russian and Eurasian Studies (IERES) at the George Washington University’s Elliott School of International Affairs. PONARS Eurasia is supported in part by a grant from Carnegie Corporation of New York.

This event is on the record.