The community of Azerbaijani immigrants in the United States is a recent phenomenon. Azerbaijani immigration and integration in the U.S. has not been documented and studied thoroughly. The speaker will examine the history of Azerbaijani immigration to the U.S. and present data on key geographic, demographic, social, and economic characteristics of the Azerbaijani population in the U.S. He will also explore community formation among Azerbaijani immigrants.

Ahmad Guliyev is a research fellow at the Institute of History of the Azerbaijan National Academy of Sciences and a Fulbright visiting scholar at IERES. He is also chairman of the NGO Development in Science and Education. He received his Ph.D. in 2007.
