Waiting for the Barbarians:
Rising Powers in the Western Imagination
Part of IERES's European Politics Series with

Ayşe Zarakol
Council on Foreign Relations/University of Cambridge

Ayşe Zarakol is a University Lecturer in International Relations at the University of Cambridge, Department of Politics and International Studies, and a Fellow and College Lecturer at Emmanuel College. Previously she was Assistant Professor of Politics at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, VA. She received her BA in Political Science and Classical Studies from Middlebury College, VT, and her MA and PhD in Political Science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She is the author of After Defeat: How the East Learned to Live with the West (Cambridge UP, 2011; Turkish version with a new introduction with Koc University Press, 2012). Zarakol has an International Affairs Fellowship with the Council on Foreign Relations during the 2012-3 academic year, with placement as an analyst at the Foreign Affairs, Defense and Trade section of the Congressional Research Service. Her current research focuses on East-West relations in the international system, rising powers, social dimensions of international relations, and Turkish foreign policy in comparative perspective.

Friday, March 8, 2013
12:00 – 1:30 pm
Voesar Conference Room
1957 E Street NW, Suite 412
Please RSVP at http://go.gwu.edu/Zarakol

This event is on the record