Largely, but not only, due to the effects of climate change the Arctic is becoming a hot spot on the global agenda. Similarly along those lines, Greenland is seeking to develop its natural resources as it develops politically. In that context, the forces of globalization have reached the Arctic including new emerging powers. This presentation will lay out Greenland’s goals in the current situation and identify its future plans.

Inuuteq Holm Olsen is the Greenland Minister in the Embassy of Denmark in Washington, DC. He has served as Senior Adviser in the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, as Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs and in a variety of other government positions. He earned a Masters in International Affairs from GW.
