Weapons of the Meek: How Religious Groups Influence Democratic Politics

Part of IERES’ European Politics Series

with

Anna Grzymala-Busse
University of Michigan

Anna Grzymala-Busse is Professor of Political Science and Director of Weiser Center for Europe and Eurasia and the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies at the University of Michigan. Her research interests include political parties, state development and transformation, informal political institutions, religion and politics, and post-communist politics. She is the author of two books, Rebuilding Leviathan: Party Competition and State Exploitation in Post-Communist Democracies (Cambridge 2007), and Redeeming the Communist Past: The Regeneration of the Communist Successor Parties in East Central Europe (Cambridge 2002), and numerous journal articles. Her current work examines differences in the "sacralization" of politics: the influence of organized religion on political debates and policy outcomes across developed and newer democracies. Dr. Grzymala-Busse received her Ph.D. from Harvard and was a faculty member at Yale before moving to the University of Michigan.

Dr. Grzymala-Busse’s paper can be found at: http://go.gwu.edu/BussePaper.

Friday, December 13, 2013
1:00-2:30 pm
Voesar Conference Room
1957 E Street NW, Suite 412
Please RSVP at http://go.gwu.edu/GrzymalaBusse.

This event is on the record.