The Institute for European, Russian and Eurasian Studies (IERES) is pleased to invite you to:

Bloodlands: Europe between Hitler and Stalin

with

Timothy Snyder
Professor of History, Yale University

In the lands between Berlin and Moscow, some fourteen million people were killed from 1933 to 1945 by German and Soviet policy. Professor Snyder will discuss the major killing policies, from Soviet terror through the Holocaust, with special attention to the overlap and interaction of Soviet and German power in the “Bloodlands”: western Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Poland, and the Baltics.

Timothy Snyder is professor of history at Yale University, specializing in the political history of central and eastern Europe. He received his B.A. from Brown University and his doctorate from the University of Oxford, where he was a British Marshall Scholar. He has also held fellowships in Paris, Warsaw and at Harvard, where he was an Academy Scholar. Among his many publications are five books: Nationalism, Marxism, and Modern Central Europe: A Biography of Kazimierz Kelles-Krauz (1998); The Reconstruction of Nations: Poland, Ukraine, Lithuania, Belarus, 1569-1999 (2003); Sketches from a Secret War: A Polish Artist's Mission to Liberate Soviet Ukraine (2005); The Red Prince: The Secret Lives of a Habsburg Archduke (2008); and Bloodlands: Europe Between Hitler and Stalin (2010).
